Createspace, United States, 2013. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Large Print. 203 x 133 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Driving away from home, at 38, for the first time in her whole life, Samantha and her daughter were on an adventure. After reading an article on the prettiest little ghost towns in America, one of the towns seem to call to Samantha s heart. So, Samantha researched, on the internet, the picturesque, gold-rush, ghost town. It was literally a population of zero and for sale: lock, stock and barrel for a steal. Sam wasn t leading this town hall so she took the first chair and sat down to listen. She looked around but Lexie wasn t in the hall. She was in an empty room that was full to capacity. Sam couldn t hear the conversations. The people seemed to be hazy balls of mist and the voices seemed like a muffled, far off rumble. Josh was having real trouble keeping a train of thought in this place. He kept wanting to kiss Samantha every time he looked at her. She wasn t small and petite, like his normal type. She was sturdy and strong. She was also clear headed and intelligent with the exception of believing there are ghosts. She was pretty, though. She had long beautiful brown hair, that looked so soft he wanted to reach out and touch it. She had piercing light blue eyes and a smile that was seriously hard not to respond to. Her smile brought out the dimples in her cheeks, which made it exceedingly hard not to kiss her. Besides that he felt like he was being pushed toward her. When she had kept him from falling earlier he had kept his hands down, but the...
