By Noble G Ricketts

Forgotten Books, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****. Excerpt from The Marion Expedition to Davis Strait and Baffin Bay, Vol. 1: Under Direction of the United States Coast Guard, 1928 Prior to the loss of the Titanic, on April 14, 1912, as the result of a collision with an iceberg in the North Atlantic, no patrol was maintained in the region of the Grand Banks for the purpose of safeguarding lives and property against the iceberg peril, and no systematic study had been made of physical and oceanographic conditions pertaining to icebergs and their drift in the North Atlantic. While a patrol of the ice zone was maintained during the seasons of 1912 and 1913 to meet an almost universal demand, arising from the Titanic catastrophe, for protection against the iceberg menace, it was not until the season of 1914 that the United States Government undertook the management of the international service of study and observation of ice conditions and of ice patrol, pursuant to the International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea signed on January 20, 1914. This was a new and important duty, inaugurating the entry of...
